Companioned Prayer™

Companioned Prayer includes the role of a prayer companion who reads text and accompanies the person who is praying. The prayer is offered and practiced as a Christian, interactive, contemplative prayer. The prayer experience is between the person praying and God, and requires an active faith relationship with Him or a searching for that relationship. Neither the prayer companion nor the person praying should view the role of the companion, or the prayer practice or prayer experience, as a substitute for professional therapy or treatment. Companioned Prayer is not a form of therapeutic treatment. Neither is it spiritual direction nor spiritual counseling. It is a private, personal prayer with the assistance and companionship of another person. Your prayer companions, the sponsoring or hosting organization and the Companioned Prayer Christian Fellowship, and their officers, members, employees and volunteers, are not responsible for your prayer experience. If you have related questions or concerns about Companioned Prayer, discuss them with your therapist, doctor and/or priest before beginning or engaging in any further practice of the prayer. You should not practice, or continue to practice, any prayer that you are not comfortable with. For additional information, see “Trauma and Major Illness” and “Influences of Other Prayer or Meditative Practices” in chapter 12 of the book, Companioned Prayer, An interactive prayer for companions, families and small groups by Bill Stobbe available at www.CompanionedPrayer.org/supplemental-resources.
